Honor
AUGUST 2022

SAY IT:

Honor means letting someone know you see how valuable they really are.

KNOW IT:

ASK A GROWN UP:

- Who were some people you looked up to when you were young?
  How did you show them honor?

ASK A KID:

- Have you ever had someone show you honor? How did it make you feel?
- What are some ways you can show honor to your teachers and other students?

SEE IT:

At the end of The Lion, The Witch, and The Wardrobe, Aslan, the king of Narnia, bestows royalty on the four heroes of the story. Even though each of them have displayed personality characteristics that weren't always the most honorable, Aslan deems them worthy of honor. Watch this clip and discuss the feeling of honor and value we get from the siblings taking their thrones: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=jIcBb7tfvos

BE IT:

Think of someone in your community that you would like to honor. Come up with a way to show them how valuable they are to you. Make a card for the teacher, bake cookies for the fire department, take flowers to some residents at a senior living community. Be creative, have fun, and show honor to those around you.

What is a Phase?

We've all said it: "It's just a phase." Meaning that your child will get through whatever irritating moment in time he or she happens to be in right now.

But what if we flip that? What if instead of eagerly awaiting the moment when your child will grow out of it, we embraced each Phase as a moment of time that we will never have again?

What if a Phase became: A time frame in a kid's life when you can leverage that moment to influence their future.

If you're a planner, you may be concentrating on the future – a phase your child will be in sometime in the future.

If you are nostalgic, you may be focused on what your child used to be like.

But instead, let's focus on how we can use this year, these next 10 months, to influence our kids for the best possible outcome.

So don't miss it. It's just a phase!
